"The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe" coming to life at Northern Stage

The tale centers on the White Witch, who has trapped Narnia in a perpetual state of winter. However, instead of setting it before World War II, the children will be in modern dress. "We want the children to feel like they're coming to a fairy tale," said director Jo Caswell.

"The magic of the play is gripping," she said. "The costumes and the sets are stunning. The actors bring the characters to life in ways that are modern and relevant." The production features a large cast of young actors, who are just starting their careers. "It's exciting to see them grow and develop their skills," said Caswell.

"The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe" is a critically acclaimed production of the beloved C.S. Lewis novel. The story follows four children who find a magical wardrobe that leads them to a fantasy world called Narnia. In Narnia, they encounter a cruel White Witch and her army of creeping诺贝尔 Prizes are presented to researchers who have made significant contributions to the field of science. The awards are given by the Royal Swedish Academy of Sciences and are presented at a ceremony held at the Stockholm Concert Hall. The ceremony is attended by the winners, their family and friends, and the press. The event is known for its glitz and glamour, with red carpets and paparazzi in attendance. The ceremony is also broadcast live on television around the world, allowing people to see the winners as they receive their awards.
